(CHICAGO, IL) Two internationally-renowned and innovative contemporary dance companies, Hubbard Street Dance Chicago and Malpas Dance Company, share the Auditorium Theatre's landmark stage on March 2 and 3, 2019 as part of the theatre's "Made in Chicago" 312 Dance Series. This two-night-only engagement features two world premieres: a work for Malpas created by Chicago-based choreographer and former Hubbard Street dancer Robyn Mineko Williams, commissioned by the Auditorium, and a work set on Hubbard Street, choreographed by Malpas Artistic Director Osnel Delgado and commissioned by Hubbard Street.

The Auditorium Theatre's commission of Williams' new work is made possible through the generosity of Pamela Crutchfield (Lead Commissioner), with additional support from Patti Eylar & Charlie Gardner and Amalia & William Mahoney. Hubbard Street's appearance is generously supported by the Conagra Brands Foundation, Denise & John Ginascol, and Larry & Marla Gilbert.

"We are honored to present these two groundbreaking companies that are at the forefront of the contemporary dance scene in their respective cities, each renowned for its vibrant dance culture, and around the world," says C.J. Dillon, Auditorium Theatre Chief Programming Officer. "Bringing these companies together for the first time will showcase the important work that can result from cross-cultural collaboration."

"Bringing artists together to challenge and elevate our dancers and audiences here in Chicago is my focus as an artistic director," says Glenn Edgerton, Hubbard Street Dance Chicago Artistic Director. "Bringing cultures together while giving a platform for two unique choreographers to express themselves adds yet another element of commitment to these goals. It is a unique undertaking that I hope Chicago truly embraces. Welcoming Malpas onto the Auditorium's stage with us speaks to the openness I hope for our country."

Delgado comes to Chicago to set his new work on Hubbard Street in late January, while Williams has already made a trip to Cuba to work with Malpas. She returns to Cuba in February to continue working with the company. More details regarding the world premiere works will be released closer to the performances.

In addition to the world premieres, Hubbard Street reprises Williams' 2017 piece Cloudline, and Osnel Delgado performs his duet piece Ocaso with a Hubbard Street dancer. Cloudline, called "visually stunning" by See Chicago Dance, is set to music by Olafur Arnalds, Sufjan Stevens, Emmitt Rhodes, Alice Sara Ott, and Julie London. Ocaso, which translates to "sunset," chronicles the evolution of a relationship in the aftermath of a catastrophic event and is set to music by Autechre, Kronos Quartet, and Max Richter.

Through the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation's International Connections Fund, the Auditorium Theatre will be conducting extensive community engagement around the Hubbard Street and Malpaso performances. Cuban and Latinx community groups will attend the performances for free through the Auditorium's ADMIT ONE program, which provides tickets, transportation, and workshops to participants. Auditorium Theatre Teaching Artists will host Power in Movement dance residencies at local high schools and with local dance schools. Additionally, See Chicago Dance will host a special Moving Dialogs event, featuring Williams and Delgado and moderated by Jorge Perez, executive director and associate artistic director of Ensemble Español Spanish Dance Theater. The discussion, hosted at the Ruth Page Center for the Arts (1016 N Dearborn St) on Tuesday, February 12 at 6PM, will focus on transcending language barriers through dance and movement. Cuban snacks and drinks will be provided, and choreographer and instructor Denita Inez, director of the Desueño Dance Company, will lead a Cuban salsa lesson following the conversation.

About Hubbard Street Dance Chicago

Hubbard Street Dance Chicago's core purpose is to bring artists, art and audiences together to enrich, engage, educate, transform and change lives through the experience of dance. Celebrating Season 41 in 2018–19, under the artistic leadership of Glenn Edgerton, Hubbard Street continues to innovate, supporting ascendant creative talent while presenting repertory by internationally recognized living artists. Hubbard Street has grown through the establishment of multiple platforms alongside the Lou Conte Dance Studio — now in its fifth decade of providing a wide range of public classes and pre-professional training — while extensive Youth, Education, Community, Adaptive Dance, and Family Programs keep the organization deeply connected to its hometown.

About Malpaso Dance Company

In the five short years since its establishment in 2012, Malpaso Dance Company has already become one of the most sought after Cuban dance companies with a growing international profile. Emphasizing a collaborative creative process, Malpaso is committed to working with top international choreographers while also nurturing new voices in Cuban choreography. The company tours with 11 dancers and is led by its original three founders; resident choreographer and Artistic Director Osnel Delgado, Executive Director Fernando Sáez, and dancer and co-founder Daileidys Carrazana. An Associate Company of Joyce Theater Productions, Malpaso — together with The Joyce — has commissioned original works from a number of prominent North American choreographers, including Ronald K. Brown (Why You Follow), Trey McIntyre (Under Fire), and acclaimed Canadian choreographer Aszure Barton (Indomitable Waltz).

The Auditorium Theatre's commission of a new work for Malpaso Dance Company is made possible through the generosity of Pamela Crutchfield (Lead Commissioner) with additional support from Patti Eylar & Charlie Gardner and Amalia & William Mahoney.

The Auditorium's outreach initiatives for the Hubbard Street/Malpaso Dance Company performance are supported by the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation's International Connections Fund.

Malpaso Dance Company is an Associate Company of Joyce Theater Productions.
